NUMB. 3050

TUESDAY, JUNE 25, 1745.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from Holland.

Riga in Livonia, June 10.

THE Russian Troops that are quarter'd in this Country, are all in Motion, pursuant to the Orders of the Court, directing them to hold themselves ready to march on one Day's Notice; to facilitate which, they are immediately to encamp. It is computed that these Troops make 36000 Men complete. We can say nothing with Certainty of their Destination; but the People in general, and the Officers of those Troops agree, that before the End of the Summer, they will march into Germany.

Leghorn, June 12. The English Men of War upon the Coast have sent in several Prizes; and among the rest, three Neapolitan, and two Genoese Barks, laden with Provisions; but we are however told, that four large Spanish Transports, laden with Artillery and Ammunition, have found Means to sail from Villa Franca to Genoa without Interruption; which is to us amazing. Both the Spanish Armies in the Territories of the State of Genoa are in Motion. It is supposed that they intend to penetrate into Piedmont and the Milanese by three different Routes. We learn by private Letters from Genoa, that the Republick has at last declar'd absolutely on the Part of Spain, by ordering Don Francisco de Brignoles, with General Seissel, and 12,000 Men, to advance towards Bochetta: They have also order'd 8000 Men to assemble in the Neighbourhood of Final, which are to be employed in the Monferrat. They are likewise preparing a Train of 40 Pieces of heavy Cannon. The Application made to the Regency at Florence for the Passage of the Spanish and Neapolitan Troops through this Duchy, have failed; our Regency having offer'd that they should pass in small Bodies, and without entering any of the Towns, which the Spaniards have refused; so that there is an End of this Negotiation, which has made so much Noise. General Bianchini, whom the Queen of Hungary has declar'd her Plenipotentiary in Lombardy, is lately arriv'd at Treviso.

Vienna, June 19. Count Kevenhuller, First Ambassador Plenipotentiary of the Kingdom, and Elector of Bohemia, is sent from hence on the 15th for Franckfort. We are taking all imaginable Care to recruit as far as may be, the Army under the Command of Prince Charles of Lorraine. It is said his Serene Highness would have been content to have had M. Traun sent to him; but it is doubted, whether his Request, in this Respect, will be complied with; but a great Train of Artillery is actually providing, and will set out for his Army in a few Days. We are well assured, that one great Cause of the Loss of the Battle of Freyberg, was the bad Behaviour of some of our Corps, notwithstanding the warm Exhortations, and generous Examples of their Officers. The Journey of the Grand Duke remains fixed for the 24th; the best Part of his Baggage, and that of his Attendants, being already gone to the Army.

Prague, June 19. According to the last Advices from the Allied Army, they daily receive either Reinforcements or Recruits; so that the Loss sustained in the late Battle will be very speedily repaired. A Body of 6000 Saxons are in full March for the Army, and an additional Train of 20 Pieces of Cannon are actually arriv'd here. Colonel Trenk, with his new Corps of Irregular Troops, has Orders to march without delay to join the said Army, the Head Quarters of which, at present, is at Konigsgratz; but as soon as these Forces have joined them, we make no manner of Doubt that they will begin to act offensively, in order to oblige the Prussians to retire back again into Silesia. It is said we shall speedily receive Orders from Vienna, to raise a great Body of Recruits, and to furnish Horses for remounting the Cavalry.

Munich, June 22. There are frequent Conferences held at Court, to find out Ways and Means for putting our Finances into some Order. Field-Marshal Count Beckendorff is returned hither from Augsburg, without being able to accomplish the assembling an Army of Observation. The only Minister of any of the Powers engaged in the League of Franckfort, that remains here, is the Prussian, and we suppose his Stay will not be long; since Count Cordeck is actually arriv'd here, with the Title of Ambassador from the Queen of Hungary and Bohemia, and has been extremely well received.

Dusseldorf, June 29. The Army of Count Bathian, after having halted two Days at Loubach, march'd from thence on the 21st of this Month, and fix'd its Head Quarters at Entelhausen; and from thence continued its Route to Wenings. On the 23d it arriv'd at Birnstein, and on the 24th at Salmunster. We had this Moment Intelligence, that the two Austrian Armies had join'd at Wachtelsbach, and that they are preparing to pass the Main. We shall very soon see whether the French, who are Masters of both Sides that River, will be able to oppose their Passage more effectually than they did their Conjunction. It is upon this Event that the Success of their Affairs in the Empire solely depends. If they prove fortunate, Russia, on the other side, our Sovereign, will remain firm to their first Party; but if they should run and hide themselves behind the Lines of Lauterbourg, there is no sort of Doubt that both those Princes will secure their Peace, by making a seasonable Change in their Sentiments. In short, if the French retire, the Election of the Grand Duke, will be unanimous.

Brussels, June 29. The Regiment of Brinck is march'd from hence for Namur, as are also two other Regiments; and it is said the 5000 Men that are coming from Luxembourg, have likewise Orders to throw themselves into the same Place. We are, however, in some Pain about the Success of these Measures, because, according to all Appearance, the French have actually an Intention to invest that City; which if they execute immediately, they may possibly cut off some of these Corps. His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, and the Prince of Wiedeck, are very busy in raising Two Independent Companies, of 110 Men each, which are to be entirely compos'd of French Deserters. This Morning we had certain Advice from the Enemy's Army, that 90 Pieces of heavy Artillery, and 60 Mortars, with Powder, Bombs, and Bullets in proportion, were arriv'd at Givet; and that in the Night between the 23d and 24th, a Body of 37 Battalions, and 27 Squadrons, march'd from the Camp under Tournay to Fontenoy, but with what View we know not.

Hague, July 3. The Count de Podewilles has deferred his Departure for some Days, notwithstanding the Arrival of his Successor, M. Ammon, who has been received by their High Mightinesses as Resident from his Prussian Majesty; and who is Brother in Law to M. de Marteville, who is Resident from their High Mightinesses at the Court of Berlin. The Memorial by which the old Minister, who was Envoy Extraordinary, took his Leave of the States General, is considered here as a Master-piece in its Kind. The News Writers in the Province of Holland dare not publish it; but as it is not conceived that this Restriction extends to Foreign Countries, I send you a Copy of it.

High and Mighty Lords,

'The King, my Master, in recalling me from hence, has charged me with a very agreeable Office at parting; by the Order he has given me to reiterate to your High Mightinesses the Protestations of that sincere Friendship, of which his Majesty has given them the warmest Instances on all Occasions that have presented themselves.

'Animated by the same great and noble Sentiments which his Ancestors have, without Interruption, profess'd for this State, the King has nothing more at Heart than to knit more strongly the Bands of Friendship and good Intelligence, which have hitherto so happily subsisted between the House of Brandenburg and this R. publick; and which Neighbourhood, Religion, and so many other Interests that are common to the Two States, ought to render indissoluble.

'His Majesty expects, that your High Mightinesses making a just Return to Dispositions so favourable as these are, and rejecting whatever might contribute to alter them, will not take his Concerns less to Heart than your Welfare and Prosperity shall be always dear to him.

'Permit me, High and Mighty Lords, to join my hearty Prayers for the Continuance of that Union, which, during all the Time I have had the Honour to reside near your High Mightinesses, has been the constant Object of my Wishes, the perpetual Business of my Cares. The Kindnesses with which you have been pleas'd to honour me, shall be returned by an eternal Gratitude: And as I have been, during the whole Time of my Residence, the Witness of the great Wisdom of your Government, so I shall remain the most zealous Admirer thereof to the latest Hour of my Life.'

Done at the Hague,
June 26, 1745.

Sign'd the Count de Podewilles.

SCOTLAND.

Hawick, June 14. This Day the News of the Right Hon. the Countess of Dalkeith being deliver'd of a Son (Lord Scot of Whitechapel) and Her apparent of the Noble Family of Buccleugh, came to our Hands; on which Account, Mr. Scott of Crumhaugh, the Duke of Buccleugh's Chamberlain here, gave a splendid Entertainment to our Magistrates, &c.

Edinburgh, June 17. The Twenty-four additional Companies for the Scots Regiments in the Dutch Service, have been lately rais'd in this Country: The last of these Companies were embark'd on Friday and Saturday aboard Transports in Leith Road. And this Morning they sail'd; together with the Trade for Holland, London, &c. in all near 50 Sail, from the Road, under Convoy of the Fox, Hazard, Happy Janet, and Hawk Men of War.

Last Saturday Night Mess. Heate and Kettle, two of his Majesty's Messengers, arriv'd here from London, with a Warrant from the Right Hon. the Marquis of Tweeddale, one of his Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, to bring before him Sir Hector Maclean, Bart. George Bleau, of Castle-hill, Esq; and Lauchlan Maclean, Sr Hector's Servant, who were accordingly deliver'd to them; and this Morning they were convey'd in Chaises to the Water-Gate, being guarded by a Party of Col. Lefebvre's Regiment, where they were received by another Corps, and proceeded for Haddington directly.
